

Stamford House
Stamford Street
London SE1
01-928 3355

Telegrams Sainsbury London SE1
Telex 264241

TO OUR WEYBRIDGE CUSTOMERS

We regret to announce that we shall be closing down our Weybridge branch on Saturday, 5th May, and realising that this will inevitably cause disappointment to many of our customers, we feel that we should give the reasons why we can no longer trade here.

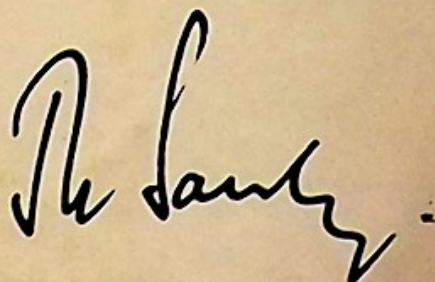

Sainsbury's first opened in Weybridge in 1920, but for many years the shop has been totally inadequate to meet the present day needs of our customers or to provide reasonable working conditions for our staff.

At present costs - and at Sainsbury's prices - it is impossible to operate shops of this type economically. We have for some time been seeking a suitable site to replace the Weybridge branch, but unfortunately without success. We shall continue to look for sites in the general area, but as expansion of the present branch is impractical, we have no alternative but to cease trading here.

We appreciate this will make it inconvenient for many of our local customers to continue to deal with us and we offer our sincere regrets at no longer being able to offer Sainsbury shopping in Weybridge.

We hope we may have the pleasure of continuing to serve those of our customers who find it convenient to shop at our supermarket in Walton-on-Thames. This modern store, with ample convenient car parking, sells the full range of Sainsbury's products, including wines and spirits and household goods.

Finally, may we say how grateful we are to our customers for their support in the past and how much we regret the circumstances which force us to take this decision.

March, 1973.

John Sainsbury

J Sainsbury Ltd.
Stamford House
Stamford Street
London SE1

To our Weybridge customers:

We regret to announce that we shall be closing down our Weybridge branch on Saturday, 5th May, and realising that this will inevitably cause disappointment to many of our customers, we feel that we should give the reasons why we can no longer trade here.

Sainsbury's first opened in Weybridge in 1920, but for many years the shop has been totally inadequate to meet the present day needs of our customers or to provide reasonable working conditions for our staff.

At present costs—and at Sainsbury's prices—it is impossible to operate shops of this type economically. We have for some time been seeking a suitable site to replace the Weybridge branch, but unfortunately without success. We shall continue to look for sites in the general area, but as expansion of the present branch is impractical, we have no alternative but to cease trading here.

We appreciate this will make it inconvenient for many of our local customers to continue to deal with us and we offer our sincere regrets at no longer being able to offer Sainsbury shopping in Weybridge.

We hope we may have the pleasure of continuing to serve those of our customers who find it convenient to shop at our supermarket in Walton-on-Thames. This modern store, with ample convenient car parking, sells the full range of Sainsbury's products, including wines and spirits and household goods.

Finally, may we say how grateful we are to our customers for their support in the past and how much we regret the circumstances which force us to take this decision.

March 1973

John Sainsbury